Report: Awareness on Millet in the Local Area

Event: Awareness on Millet In the local Area.

Date: 28th December, 2023.

Objectives: To educate neighbors and the locality about the health benefits and nutritional value of incorporating millets into their diets, promoting healthier living while emphasizing the importance of this ancient grain.

Highlight: The NSS unit of S.M. Shetty College of Science, Commerce and Arts, Management Studies in Powai has organized a campaign to raise awareness about the benefits and versatility of millets. Volunteers actively engaged with people in their neighborhoods and shared information and insights about the nutritional advantages of millet. They visited people's homes and interacted directly with locals to impart knowledge about millets. Volunteers were encouraged to take up to three photos while engaging in awareness sessions to document their activity. The campaign used digital platforms to enable volunteers to submit their captured moments and share their experiences through an online response form. The aim was to foster a collaborative effort to encourage community participation in embracing the nutritional significance of millets. The campaign's success lies in the collective effort of volunteers to spread awareness, document their interactions, and encourage people to embrace millets for healthier living.
