smshettycollege 21st February! The day was declared as the International Mother Language Day by UNESCO, to commemorate the Bengali Language Movement in 1952. The day itself originated by Indian Influence! And on this occasion, let's break the linguistic barriers and celebrate our diversity. And what better way to do so than learn about our languages? These are facts about the huge number of languages spoken in our beautiful, rainbow like country with colours of all kind.
